COOLIDGE OUTLINES DRY ENFORCEMENT POLICY

DISCRIMINATION IS COMPLAINT IN SUIT AGAINST AUTO TAX

Arguments Attacking Validity of New Weight Tax Law Heard in Supreme Court

CONTENTIONS OF AUTO MEN DENIED BY STATE ATTORNEYS

Suit Brought Against Secretary of State by State Body

MADISON, Wis.—By The Associated Press.—Validity of the motor vehicle registration act passed by the [illegible] legislature was argued before the supreme court Saturday in a test case brought by the Transportation Association of Wisconsin. The suit was brought against Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman directly in the supreme court in an attack on the validity of the new statute.

The plaintiff claimed that the act is unconstitutional as a whole because of certain specified discriminations and that section 5 of the act, providing for re-registration of commercial vehicles this year is invalid even though the rest of the law be sustained. The attorney general's department, representing the state, strongly [illegible] both of the main contentions. [illegible] of the first arguments made [illegible] state's attorneys was that the [illegible] license tax is a regulatory ex[illegible] of the police power of the state. The plaintiff contended that the fee is a privilege tax, since a large portion of the revenues from the act are used for other than administrative purposes.

[illegible] alleged discriminations were [illegible] by Ralph M. Hoyt, former deputy attorney general, attorney for the plaintiff, as basis for holding the act unconstitutional. They follow in brief: discriminations exist in license fee per pound for vehicles of different weight but of the same class; higher fees are required for busses seating more than five passengers than for trucks or pleasure cars of the same capacity; act discriminates against busses in favor of taxicabs; discriminates by exemption of tractors used for agricultural purposes; by exemption of trailers under 8,000 pounds, gross weight; pleasure cars over five years old are given reduced tax whereas commercial vehicles are not; exempting granted cars registered in other states; much of revenue from act will be used for highway construction and maintenance in rural districts where, as greatest part comes from cities.

The state disclaimed all of these contentions, and argued that even though some of the contentions be sustained, only a portion of the new act can be held invalid. It was further argued that there was no contractual obligation on part of the state which the re-registration provision of the act would impair.

These few pieces of twisted wood and steel mutely tell the story of the recent sensational Southern Pacific holdup in a tunnel near Ashland, Ore. The debris is all that remains of the mail car the bandits dynamited. Three trainmen and a mail clerk were killed in the robbery. And this picture also gives an idea of the damage done to the baggage car adjoining the wrecked coach.

CALIFORNIA MAN ELECTED HEAD OF AMERICAN LEGION

Choice Falls Upon Captain Quinn After Two States Switch Votes

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal. — By the Associated Press.—John R. Quinn of Delona, Kern county, Cal., was elected national commander of the American Legion at the fifth annual convention here on Friday on the eleventh ballot.

Quinn was elected when Pennsylvania switched fifty-four votes from James A. Drain to Quinn on the eleventh ballot and Indiana switched twenty-six from Metcalf to Quinn, giving the Californian 502 votes, more than the necessary 437 to elect him.

Quinn's election was made unanimous on the motion of Drain, seconded by Edwards. John R. Quinn was born in 1889 near Porterville. His early education was received in public schools and completed with a college career at the University of California in 1912.

Attended Training Camp

He was commissioned at the second officers' training camp, Presidio, San Francisco, Cal., as captain of field artillery and assigned to the Three Hundred and Forty-eighth Field artillery, going overseas in command of Battery F of that organization.

He was with the army of occupation and returned to the United States in April, 1919.

In 1921 Quinn was named department commander of the American Legion of California, leaving that office in 1922. He was at New Orleans when he extended the invitation of San Francisco for the entertainment of the 1923 Legion convention.

When carried to the platform, National Commander Elect Quinn said:

"I can say nothing except that my heart and soul is dedicated to the principles of the American Legion."

The five following national vice commanders were elected:

INDIANS GET HUNTING GROUNDS

EDMONTON, Alta.—By an order in council issued from Ottawa, white men are to be barred from hunting in the major portion of the Arctic and the mainland of the northwest territories. These vast stretches of territory are to be reserved for the Indians and Eskimos who live in the lands which fringe the north pole. They will have a hunting area about 300 miles long by 260 miles wide in the Banks river section alone.

BANK BANDITS GET $15,000

CHARLESTON, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—Bandits estimated to have numbered ten or twelve, held up a night watchman and blew open the vault and safe of the First National bank of Oakland, Ill., early Saturday and escaped with $15,000 in currency and bonds.

FOREST FIRES WERE AID TO FARMERS IN NORTH WISCONSIN

Underbrush and Slashings are Cleaned up and Much Land Cleared, Say Farmers

SUPERIOR, Wis.—Although the fires of the county during the past three weeks were very dangerous and had they got beyond control would have undoubtedly resulted in great loss of property and possibly life, fate clothed them in disguise and transformed the danger into a boon to many farmers, members of the Douglas county board state.

In the fire areas the fires have done a world of good, they state, burning up the slashings in clearings, burning up the underbrush, and clearing more land than the farmers could have effected in several years.

O. W. Halvorson, supervisor from the town of Maple, declared that the fires did more good work on his farm than he possibly could have done himself in three years. He said the same condition was true of other farmers in the neighborhood.

WOMAN CONFESSES MURDER OF HUSBAND INVOLVES 2 OTHERS

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—Mrs. George E. Schick has confessed to charges involving herself and Mr. and Mrs. E. Drew Clark in the murder of Mrs. Schick's husband, weathy San Diego real estate man, who has been missing since February 7, according to Chester Kemple, district attorney.

According to the district attorney, Mrs. Schick's confession also includes forgeries alleged by which she and Clark obtained possession of Schick's property through fraudulent power of attorney and deeds. The statement was obtained from the woman shortly after twelve o'clock Saturday morning, Kemple said.

EMMETT CLEARY IS ABLE TO LEAVE THE HOSPITAL FOR HOME

Emmett Cleary, who was run down by an automobile in Copeland park a week ago and who sustained fractures of two of the lower process bones of the spine, was removed from the La Crosse hospital to his home on Rose street on Friday. Dr. Dean Crowell, his physician, says the boy is improving rapidly. His body is encased in a cast and the doctor is of the opinion that he will completely recover in a short time.

77 YEAR OLD CASHIER GETS 5 YEAR TERM

WEST BEND, Wis. — William Froehlich, aged 77, former cashier of the Jackson State bank, pleaded guilty to five counts of embezzlement before Judge C. M. Davison in circuit court and was sentenced to five years in Waupun on each charge, sentence to run concurrently. He admitted taking $4,600. Froehlich was secretary of state from 1899 to 1903. The bank was closed here last April.

HOUSTON COUNTY COMMISSION FIGHTS RIVER DRAINAGE PLAN

Conversion of Winneshiek Bottoms into Farm Land Held Contrary to Public Interest

INCREASES IN TAXES NEEDED TO DEFRAY $400,000 EXPENSE

District Attorney Authorized to Take Means to Defeat Plan

THE drainage proposition in the Mississippi river bottoms between Reno, Minn., and New Albany, Iowa, will find some pretty tough opposition, now that Houston county has come out and openly declared itself opposed to the new project. The county board believes that the proposed construction of drainage ditches and dikes at the engineer's estimated cost of $400,000 will be against the interest of the county and its tax payers.

See Increase in Taxes

Altogether there are 10,000 acres of island land between Reno and New Albin, of which about eighty per cent is involved in the drainage proposition. Land now valued at $12 to $15 per acre will have to be assessed at practically $51 per acre after the land is drained, to pay the cost.

The county board in session Wednesday with village and township officers of Houston county were practically unanimous in disapproving the proposition. All villages and towns except Spring Grove village were represented at the meeting. After a lengthy discussion the following resolution was offered and passed by a unanimous vote:

Resolution Against Plan

"Be it resolved, that it is the consensus of the meeting that the proposed construction of the improvements of Houston county drainage and conservation district No. 1 at a cost of over $400,000, will be against the public interest of the county of Houston and its tax payers, and the cost thereof will far exceed any possible benefit to be derived therefrom. Therefore

"Be it further resolved, that the county commissioners of Houston county, Minn., should take all possible means to defeat said project, and to that end

"Be it further resolved, that the county commissioners of Houston county, Minnesota, and William E. Flynn, county attorney of said county, be authorized to employ at the expense of said county, such additional legal assistance as they may deem necessary."

SPOON TAKEN AS CIVIL WAR TROPHY GIVEN TO OWNER

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn.—Held for fifty-nine years in the home of a "Yankee" soldier, as a trophy of the Civil war, a silver spoon has found its way back to "rebel" territory. The spoon was taken from the home fo Colonel George Stackner, near Cumberland City, in 1864, by a member of the 83rd Illinois cavalry, according to a letter from C. L. Morris, of Plymouth, Ind., who returned the spoon to Miss Margaret Stacker, the colonel's daughter.

Mr. Morris wrote that the cavalry detachment spent the night at the Stacker home, where they were not "given a very hospitable welcome." The unwelcome guests were dissatisfied with the food they received, he said, and just before their departure raided the pantry. He said his "bunkie" took two spoons and later presented him with the one returned to Miss Stacker.

HOUSE FIRED AND SLAYER SHOT TO DEATH BY POSSE

ALEXANDRIA, Minn. — Edward Larson, 38 years old, slayer of Jacob Ley, was shot to death by a posse and his body partly burned when his bungalow was fired in an effort to drive him from cover, possemen found early Saturday when they examined the smoking ruins of the house.

William Ransden, a member of the posse, also is dead as a result of the series of tragic events which had their inception Friday night when Larson shot Ley after the latter had attempted to intercede for Mrs. Larson and her two sons who had been driven from their home by the husband at the point of a gun. Ransden was killed accidentally during an exchange of shots between the posse and Larson.

ROB CLOTHING STORE

LINDSTROM, Minn. — Robbers broke into the Alfred Melin and Co. clothing store here Friday night and carted away all available men's suits, overcoats, silk shirts and socks, estimated to be worth $10,000. Indications were that the robbers used two trucks to haul their loot away.

TEXT OF COOLIDGE ADDRESS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Coolidge Saturday discussed law enforcement with the governors of a number of states who were his guests at luncheon at the White House. The text of the president's address follows:

"It is my peculiar privilege to welcome you here as one, who, by experience can look at your problems with that sympathy which comes from common fellowship. The governorship of a sovereign state of our nation is an exalted position. It outranks within its own jurisdiction with a single exception every other office in America. It is the very greatest honor that a state can bestow. A gathering of governors has a significance greater than any other unofficial convocation that can be held in the United States.

"It would only be a matter of large public importance that could justify a gathering of the chief executives of the states and the nation for a conference at Washington. You have been invited here that I might lay before you some of the problems for a better enforcement of law. A statement of the purpose is sufficient to indicate the importance, for a government which does not enforce its laws is unworthy the name of a government and cannot expect to hold either the support of its own citizens, or the respect of the informed opinion of the world.

Joint Action Necessary

"That ours is a dual system of administration does not need to be explained in this presence. Joint powers and joint responsibilities exist, which can best be exercised and discharged by joint action.

"While certain classes of aliens, easily distinguishable, have been excluded from this country, for a considerable length of time, a general policy of restricting immigration, broadly inclusive, has only recently been adopted. The new law admits approximately 350,000 aliens, or about one-third of the number coming in annually under the old law before the war. On the other hand the number desiring to enter is much larger and attempts to evade the law have greatly increased. It is estimated by the department of labor that there is a seepage over the border and through the ports, of about 100,000, which is a considerable menace to the success of our immigration policy. Such an influx of persons, entering the country in violation of the law, cannot fail to attract the attention of the local authorities along our borders and on our sea coasts, who can be of very great assistance in notifying the local representatives of the department of justice, or the department of labor, in order that such persons may more readily be excluded and deported.

Must stop Drug Traffic

"Another problem exists which is world-wide in some of its aspects. It is considered of such importance to our own welfare that special representatives of this country attended, when the league of nations recently considered the regulation of the opium traffic, where their efforts met with large success. The national laws and the laws of most of the states regulate the sale of narcotic drugs. Their use, except under the direction of competent medical advice is everywhere regarded as attended with grave danger, usually resulting in lamentable disaster. The effective protection of the people from these results depends on our ability to prevent the smuggling and unlawful sale of such narcotics. Their use is, in

TWO INCHES OF SNOW REPORTED ON UPPER LAKES

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich.—Two inches of snow fell here Saturday in the wake of the storm that swept the Upper Lakes Friday. Although the storm had subsided today few vessels were passing the locks. The only lockages were upbound craft, and these vessels dropped anchor in the Upper St. Mary's river, not daring to enter Whitefish bay. Friday night's seas were the highest of the fall season, but all ships are believed to have reached safe anchorage.

NEW BATH HOUSE FINANCED HERE BY BIG BAZAAR

Elks Sponsor Movement to Raise Funds; Winona Seeking Money for Project

Up at Winona plans are being projected for a new public bathing beach and bath-house to cost $11,000.

The city and county have appropriated half of this sum but now the citizens are wondering where the balance is to come from.

Here in La Crosse the Elks lodge has solved the problem of financing the new bath-house and bathing beach by putting on a big bazaar early in November, to raise funds for the improvement. That the bazaar will raise several thousand dollars for the bath-house is assured by the widespread interest in the event, the army of workers assisting in the preliminary work and the wealth of merchandise donated by merchants.

SEVENTY MILLION IN INSURANCE WRITTEN BY STATE RISK BODY

MADISON, Wis.—Insurance totaling over $70,000,000 are in force under the state fire insurance fund, protecting state, county, city, school district to a summary of the work of the fund, prepared by the state insurance department.

Since the state fire fund was established in 1903, income from premiums on state and non-state property and interest, totaled $1,467,794, the summary shows. During the fiscal year ending July 1, 1923, receipts amounted to nearly $200,000. Approximately $15,000 in losses were paid out during the year.

A campaign has been launched by W. Stanley, insurance commissioner, to get counties and cities to take advantage of the state insurance. The rates of the state fund are said by officials to be twenty-five per cent below those of stock companies. It is further pointed out that over a million dollars has been saved to state and other agencies since the fund was established.

GENERAL PERSHING AND SISTER SAIL FOR EUROPE TODAY

NEW YORK.—John J. Pershing, who a little over six years ago secretly left Washington for France, again has slipped quietly away for a sojourn on French soil. His passage over the Atlantic has been engaged aboard the liner Leviathan, sailing Saturday from New York and it will be three months before he returns.

Neither the general's name nor that of his sister, Mrs. D. M. Butler of Nebraska, who accompanied him, appears on the passenger list; but only in respect to the lack of publicity surrounding his departure does his going resemble that of 1917. This time he is bound for a holiday. It will be, so far as the brother and sister are able to control events, just a sightseeing tour of their own. The plan for the trip was laid months ago.

CALLS UPON GOVERNORS TO ENFORCE LAW

States Cannot Avoid Responsibility for Carrying Out of Eighteenth Amendment, Declares President

CONFERENCE IS HERITAGE FROM THE HARDING ADMINISTRATION

Coolidge Carries Out Plans of Predecessor; Enlarges Scope of Meeting

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Coolidge called on the governors of the several states Saturday to assume their full share of responsibility for enforcement of the prohibition laws.

Meeting with more than thirty state executives who had responded to his invitation to attend a White House conference on law enforcement, Mr. Coolidge flatly declared that "no provision of the eighteenth amendment or the national prohibition act contemplates any surrender of state responsibility."

Provisions of the eighteenth amendment and its supplementary statutes, the president said, are "perfectly plain" in the directions they give both to the president and the governors of states.

The president suggested no new means of co-operation between the federal government and states and made no comment on the declaration of the governors Friday in their conference at West Baden, Ind., or on the suggestion as to enforcement methods recently put forward by individual governors. He did say, however, that the problems of law enforcement could not be answered by "political intrigue" or determined "by extremists on either side."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—By The Associated Press.—Calvin Coolidge takes up one of the most troublesome problems confronting him as president and as a political figure in a meeting Saturday with the governors of the several states to discuss enforcement of the prohibition, immigration and narcotic laws.

The prohibition phase of the conference holds by far the most for good or for ill for the president and his administration and the interest in that phase has been increased by recent developments in the prohibition enforcement situation and the greatly increased discussion of the dry law enforcement problem.

The conference in its prohibition aspect is a heritage from the administration of President Harding, who had planned a meeting with the state executives last spring to consider means of closer co-operation in making the prohibition laws effective. Lengthy sessions by some state legislatures which would have prevented attendance of governors caused Mr. Harding to postpone the conference, and Mr. Coolidge in assuming the presidency upon Mr. Harding's death undertook to carry out that plan as well as other policies of the late president.

Discuss Other Laws

Mr. Coolidge has added to the conference program, however, the consideration of the enforcement of the immigration and narcotic laws, and White House officials have taken pains to emphasize that the meeting today is not a prohibition conference but a law enforcement conference.

The governors, in coming to the conference have fresh in their minds the heated discussion of the prohibition question at the closing session Friday, at West Baden, Indiana, of the fifteenth annual governors' conference.

The conference adopted a resolution pledging to President Coolidge the enforcement of prohibition after a stormy debate amid a shouting and stamping of feet during which Governor Parker of Louisiana left the meeting.

Fresh also in the minds of those attending the White House conference is the action of the citizenship conference, held here early in the week by leading prohibition supporters, in declaring that the nation looks to President Coolidge to assert and maintain the majesty of the laws. This declaration in effect backed up the stand taken by Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, one of the speakers at the citizenship conference, that prohibition enforcement was up to the president, who should personally supervise the enforcement activities.

Recall Pinchot Action

The Pennsylvania governor prior to the conference had engaged in a move to close the saloons of Philadelphia and this action, together with his address, have been matters of much

DR. BESSARD WILL PREACH SUNDAY AT 1ST PRESBYTERIAN

Former Pastor Returns to City to Take Part in Homecoming Exercises

After twenty years' absence from the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church, Reverend Guido Bessard, D. D., former pastor, returned on Saturday to attend the homecoming exercises which will begin there Sunday. He will deliver the anniversary sermon at the morning service and participate in the "Radio-Postal" symposium which is on the program at the evening hour.

Doctor Bessard went from here to Philadelphia where he remained eleven years in the pastorate of the Overbrook Presbyterian church, a substantial suburban organization. Three years ago he was called to the chair of Biblical History in the Dubuque, Iowa, Theological Seminary. His subject at the morning service will be: "What is the Good of Religion." At the evening hour when postal messages from former members and friends will be read, he will speak briefly upon the general theme: "What the Church Means to Me."

One of the postal messages at this evening service will be of special interest is from another former pastor, Reverend William Torrance, D. D., now on the honorably retired roll of ministers, with residence at Muncie, Ind. He was here from 1882 to 1886. He was invited to be present during these ceremonies but asked to be excused on account of physical disability, explaining: "Of course, it cannot be on account of old age, since I am only in my eighty-fourth year, a mere baby in comparison with Methuselah. Besides, it has been only thirty years since I climbed to the top of Grandad Bluff without stopping to take a breath."

A. G. Prentiss of Chicago, who was chosen elder here in 1874, at the age of twenty-three, writes: "I was consoled to accept this high office by my good friend, Mr. D. D. McMillin. It is with gratitude and extreme thankfulness of heart that I recall the many friends and happy years we had in the old church and sunday school. Mr. Prentiss, now retired from active business, resides in the Illinois metropolis, still holds office in his church session, where, next year, he will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination.

Another response to the question, "What the Church Means to Me" comes from Mrs. Mary P. Smith of Aberdeen, Washington. She writes: "I thank God today that I was privileged to be one of that faithful band, which in 1866, was gathered in the name of the Lord Jesus to start a church in La Crosse. None but God can know the wide reaching influence of that little church around the corner. We were so poor that we were humble. Feeling the need of God as few others have, we depended upon His strength and wonderful teachings followed."

Aside from these "wireless" messages, extracts from which have been quoted above there will be others from former citizens as well as from the chief officials of the Presbyterian general as embly, including the moderator, Rev. C. F. Wishart, D. D. of Wooster Ohio and from Reverend J. T. Laughlin, D. D. of Oshkosh, Wis. moderator of Synod. The congregation of the North La Crosse Presbyterian church also has been invited to be present, whose pastor, Reverend John N. Straith, D. D. will bring a personal testimony upon this same theme.

The "Homecoming Supper" on Tuesday evening in the newly enlarged church parlors will be open to all friends and members at a nominal cost. Mr. B. C. Smith, president of the board of trustees, will preside. Toasts will be given by Mrs. W. H. Sanders, W. H. Guggenbuehl, H. R. Leithold, Mrs. Robert Campbell, G. M. Wiley and others.

Dying Badger Reveals Murder Committed Over Decade Ago; Man Arrested Denies Crime

KENOSHA, Wis.—Clearing his conscience before death sealed his lips, John Gustave Spranger, 72, his form shriveled by paralysis, his trembling palsied lips unable to shape the words he wished to mutter, revealed here Friday afternoon the story of a murder which he alleges to have occurred near Park Falls, Wis., in 1910, when a bartender there was killed by a man whose arrest is now being sought as a result of the confession. District Attorney Frank Symmonds and Police Detective Charles Rock were called to the home of the dying man.

Unable to talk the man attempted in vain to write the message but was too weak to do this. He could only nod his head as his son asked him questions regarding the alleged crime.

From this the officials gathered the story that Spranger, ten years ago, with another man had engaged in a quarrel with a bartender at Park Falls and that in a quarrel that arose the bartender had been shot by the other man, whose name has not yet been revealed by the district attorney. He told how the body had been buried on the farm near the house and officials here plan to go immediately to Park Falls to attempt to substantiate the story of the murder.

For three years Spranger has been restless. "That face is always before me," he once told his relatives, but they never understood what he referred to.

Arrested Man Denies It

PHILLIPS, Wis.—Herman Spranger, 42, is in the Price county jail here today, as a result of an alleged confession of murder made by John Gustav Spranger, 72, reported dying following a paralytic stroke at Kenosha.

Herman Spranger, a mill-worker, and formerly a farmer at Park Falls, Wis., where he lived with his wife, son and stepson, denied knowledge of the alleged crime. He was arrested Friday night.

BOY HUNTER KILLED AS DOG LEAPS ON SHOTGUN

MITCHELL, S. D.—Clestine Baughsmen, aged 15, son of John Baughmen, Woonsocket, is dead at a Mitchell hospital as the result of a peculiar hunting accident. The boy, who had been hunting, returned to his car and put the gun inside. His dog jumped in ahead of him and struck the shotgun in some way so that the gun exploded. The charge tore through the boy's left leg, cutting the arteries and nerves and shattering the bone so that an amputation was necessary. The boy, however, had lost so much blood before he reached the hospital that it was impossible to save his life.

NERVOUS PEOPLE ADVISED TO AVOID OUIJA BOARDS

MINNEAPOLIS.—Ouija boards and planchettes are "excellent things to keep away from," especially if the nervous system is at all upset, Dr. C. E. Riggs of St. Paul declared in the fifth lecture of a series being given at the Mounds Park sanitarium, as a postgraduate course in neuro-psychiatry.

Dr. Riggs said that phychic people are those whose subconscious mind is "just below or almost on the surface."

He declared modern literature is demoralizing and is responsible for the modern flapper of today, "who should be thoroughly grounded in the in the best that is written."

CREW GOES ON RAMPAGE OFFICERS RESTORE HARMONY

STEVENS POINT, Wis.—Visions of homelike conditions in the minds of a road crew, mostly foreigners, when they suddenly went on a rampage near Custer, locked their "boss" in a shed after they had chased him about the country generally and then started to do battle among themselves.

The "boss" had a phone in the shed and called local police with a plea for assistance and reinforcements, and a squad of officers responded. They succeeded in subduing the workmen after a display of firearms and "billies."

The riot is believed to have started when several of the gang started to fight, one member claiming he had been robbed. When the "boss," Ed Dedmeid, attempted arbitration, he was chased. It was reported that a new crew of men from Minneapolis had given liquor to the workmen.

MARINETTE GIRL TAKES "WALK;" STOPS AT RACINE

RACINE, Wis.—Katherine Murphy of Marinette, Wis., fell victim to a belated feeling of spring fever and the waunderlust and decided to take a "walk."

Police took her in charge here and held her until word from her parents in Marinette was received.

James E. Murphy, county surveyor of Marinette, sent word that he personally would return the girl to her home.

CITY TO SELL COAL

HANCOCK, Mich.—Only men on the payroll of the city and not elective officers, such as mayor and aldermen, will benefit under a plan projected to have the city sell its surplus coal to its employees, according to Mayor William E. Madigan. Approximately 20 city employees, such as street men, policemen and teamsters, will be affected by the plan, which is proposed primarily because the salary received by many of them makes it impossible for them to pay ready cash for coal.

Ford's New Job

FORD will spend 20 to 30 million dollars for complete electrification of the D., T. & I. It's 455 miles long, so the cost of electrifying steam railroad averages $40,000 to $60,000 a mile. Our country has around 264,000 miles of railroads. To electrify them would cost from 10 to 16 billion dollars, at the Ford rate. That would be expensive or cheap, according to economies that would or would not result. The first link of the D., T. & I. to be electrified is about 13 miles long. In a sense, it's probably a laboratory experiment. With 13 miles finished, Henry will have discovered a lot of things to avoid in electrifying the remaining 442 miles. By using current on a big scale—500,000 horsepower at work, night and day—Ford expects to cut his electric power cost to a tenth of what it is now.

It is logical to expect that all American railroads will be electrified eventually. The coal probably will be burned at the mines, generating electric current to be sent to far distances over high tension wires—or by radio transmission, who knows? A system like this is the dream of a great many scientists who are trying to solve the coal problem. They vision a day when the whole nation will be on an electrical basis with the power derived from coal burned at the mines, incidentally saving tremendous coal freight hauls. Ford climbed to the top by making autos. It will be interesting to see if he rounds out his career by becoming as big in the railroad business as he is in the auto industry. His whole life seems to revolve around the problem of cheap, fast transportation.

Our Obstacles

WE do our best work under difficulties, the same as an army puts up its best fight when trapped in a corner. No songs ever were written, no orations delivered about an army that had easy picking. Heroic deeds—really big accomplishments—are staged by the warriors who win in the face of desperate odds, such as the handful of men holding the mountain pass or trench until help arrives. It's a good thing to keep in mind, when our obstacles seem beyond our powers to handle them. It's the working of a natural law.

Farmers and amateur gardeners often wonder why crops can't grow as prolifically and with as much strength as weeds. The reason is that weeds grow wild, with no helping hand, and they have to fight hard for existence or perish. They fight hard. That's why they survive. In a garden the vegetables receive almost constant aid from man. They are, in effect, pampered. Through many generations they have come to "expect" this outside aid, in the sense that by having this aid supplied to them they have lost much of the natural vigor and initiative of vegetable life in the wild state. Progressively, as you take the obstacles away, the garden truck becomes weaker in ability to compete for existence with other growing things. So with all of us. Obstacles are sent to make us fight, thereby developing our powers, our strength. Success of the able, like survival of the fittest, necessitates a hard struggle—obstacles galore.

Death

WE are here today and gone tomorrow. A Boston real estate operator, Loren D. Towle, became fabulously rich at 49. To realize his life's dream he built a two million dollar palace-home. It was finished, ready to move into, when the owner suddenly died. Life seems to be nine-tenths preparation for a realization that never comes. It's all very well to provide for tomorrow, but there's such a thing as living too much for tomorrow, not enough for today.

New York

IT'D cost over 11 billion dollars to duplicate New York City. That's the assessed valuation of its real estate and buildings and other personal property for taxation. If France could get that much indemnity out of Germany, she'd probably bury the ax and Europe could smilingly live her normal life again. And yet the taxed value of New York City is only a thirtieth of our entire national wealth. None of us fully realizes the enormous wealth and resources of our country. They are beyond human imagination.

Power

WHEN the Wright brothers were making the first airplane flights they predicted that man eventually might fly 50 miles an hour, but hardly faster. Americans already are flying over five times that fast. The engines of the latest planes turn the air propellers more than 40 times a second, and some of these engines develop 400 horsepower and better apiece. Progress has been rapid, will steadily be more so. Airplanes in another generation or so will probably be as common as autos are today.

Babies

SEVENTY-FIVE thousand Americans a year are killed by accidents, according to President Dow of the National Safety Council. This should startle us into carefulness, especially since 10,000 are babies under five years, 20,000 are children under 15. The bulk of these accidents, of course, are avoidable. The big death toll is largely due to our rush and hustle—the speed craze caused by our nervously speeded-up ways of living.

Jap

TO rebuild the devastation of the Japanese earthquake will require three times as much building materials as were used in all the army training camps constructed by Uncle Sam during the war. This means that Japan is in the market for over eight million tons of building materials. A lot of it will come from America. Our building trades already are feeling the stimulus of this outside demand.

A Blue Gown

MARTHA McCULLOUGH-WILLIAMS

Hilma's beauty was a variable quantity, depending as it did upon the right mood, which in turn was due to the right man, who of course, depended largely upon the right frock—something dull blue, soft and clinging indicating without emphasis her classic lengths, and lithe slenderness. Sea green was nearly as good—especially if her wild rose rolor was a bit brightened. In sheer white she was a vision, but all violent hues effaced her since she could not afford the soft velvets, whose shimmerings would have made her enchanting.

Blissfully ignorant of the fact she did not yearn for them—instead was mighty happy in each new lawn or chambray or summer silk, and a pretty piece of pride, whenever she had warm new woolly things well cut and well tailored, for winter.

That is to say she had been well born, of clear blood, into a clean life of thriftily, spare abundance, brought up to honor her parents, love them next to God, to love also truth, sunshine, birds, beasts, growing things—and such of her neighbors as did not actively deserve ill will.

Oddly enough, she had come to radiant nineteen without any sort of love affair, notwithstanding many a young fellow within her purview stood trembling on her brink of courtship, proposal and matrimony. Her gay friendship masked a delicate aloofness, equal to cold storage for affections just beginning to ferment.

A fine state of affairs to be wholly overset by a new gown, a blue gown, so simple in line, making it had been a joy rather than a task. With fine old lace in a V-neck she floated softly illumined within Breck Ashley's den. Fate had rather stacked the cards for her by making him deadly weary of the companionship in which he found himself.

To speak exact truth between folly and fanaticism, in the persons of Minta Folan who read advanced fiction on purpose to quote its worst passages, and Mrs. General Gore, who from her pedestal of reform, demanded virulently prohibition of all things she disapproved—that is to say of the universe in general.

Briefly Minta was a flapper-with-malice-aforethought, Mrs. General, a monumental nuisance. Ashley, all unwittingly, had brought a letter to her father, who was Minta's guardian—thus the pair had laid hold on him as lawful prey to be fought over, before he had been two days at Clearbrook. Together they had fetched him to the picnic at the cave, in the cool dusks of which it was possible to dance happily through the hottest hours. But that waited for dinner, the great event. Until it was out the cave was neither of his guardians meant to let him for. Saith the proverb: "A wilful man must have his way." Ashley proved the adage—by what diplomacy it were tedious to set down. Suffice it that ten minutes after Hilma came in view, he was bowing over her hand, then trying hard to look to the bottom of her eyes.

Eyes clear, and dark as swamp-water pools, with yet a hint of lambent lightning in their deeps. Long curling lashes veiled them, thinnish dark brows overarched, yet the wind-blown tendrils framing her face had gold-glints even in the thick tree shade.

Tremors ran through him at her touch—he knew it was impossibly boorish—yet for his life could not keep from saying, huskily: "You will dance with me, too, anybody else. Promise it. At once."

Hilma's answer was a shaken head, a hovering smile. Again he caught her hand, asking tremulously: "Why not?" The smile strengthened. She drew her fingers lightly from his clasp and said with soft malice: "Oh, you look so confident, you need to be crossed."

"You mean so unhappy," Ashley protested. "How can I look otherwise after my ordeal?"

"Do you always say that to a new girl when you have escaped from another?" she tantalized.

He threw up his head, chuckling hard, saying, "No! Upon my honor, that's fresh from the mint."

"I won't ask, 'Stamped by the Minta?'" Hilma retored. "Duets are so horrible unless they're your last refuge at a play party."

"A play party? What is that?" from Ashley.

Hilma laughed a low, delicious laugh, answering. "A pious gathering where the company 'trots weevilly,' singing its own music as it goes through the motions of a reel or waltzes to whistled tunes, thus playing 'Twistification,' or indulges in quadrilles to the chant of 'Bounce the cymptims!' If you never saw one, you certainly ought to. Good church folk who hold real dancing a snare of the devil, play this with as much heartiness as they shout at the revivals."

"I see. But have pity on ignorance—and promise!" Ashley entreated, watching her with tranced gaze. She had been good to look at across the crowd—now inspired by his presence, full of winsome witchery, he felt nothing mattered but keeping beside her until he had won her promise to stay with him always. Judge, then, his dismay as a dusty car halted a little way off and a man within it called languidly, "Breck Ashley! It's more than impossible, your happening here. Come along with us! You must!" lowering his voice slightly. "Helen is with me—she will die if you don't."

Ashley got chalk-white, but his mouth set stubbornly. He was ready to say no—but Hilma checked him with a hushed: "Go. At once!" He obeyed, moving as one in a dream. Hilma turned away—she could not bear to watch him go, yet knew only death would keep her from seeing him again.

So the blue gown was laid away in lavender, looked at, fingered lovingly upon each anniversary of its one wearing. Yet Hilma was no recluse—rather she went more freely among her good friends and neighbors. Yet she developed a fine knack of smiling away all her would-be wooers, and smiled roguishly at the taunts of spinsterhood hurled at her by merry matrons of her own age. Love immortal had touched her to flame—it would burn forever, unguessed by her world, but making life richer and more real—waiting even was precious compared to the emptiness that might have been her portion.

Five years! No word from Ashley, nor of him. Yet she did not repine. As she shook out the blue gown something moved her to put it on and steal down to the spring house, where the birds sang even at midday. As she sat with folded hands and downcast eyes, Ashley came upon her, caught her hands, lifted her and held her close, whispering: "I dreamed true. That I found you just the same. Will you listen while I tell you—everything?"

"If I may rightfully hear it!" Hilma said slowly: "That cannot be—unless you are—free."

"I was free from the first—legally, morally," Ashley burst out, "but you sent me to bondage. I do not regret it. Poor Helen was nothing to me, neither fiancee nor wife, only a poor weakling who gave me her heart unsought, who knowing herself doomed, asked only that I remain free and let her love me without stain to the inevitable end."

"You did it. I am glad," Hilma said huskily, but nestling closer. Ashley hurried on: "She was my stepmother's grandchild—with a weak heart, and a huge fortune. Somehow—she loved me with all her soul from a little child—all the family were wild to have me marry her. I would not do it. I loved her, but in a way that made thought of marriage sacrilege. When she realized that she was content only to have me near her, to talk with me what time she had strength, and to plan what I should do with the fortune when she no longer needed me. God! I more than earned it, all those years, but knew I could not take it—all has gone to charity. Otherwise I should never have dared come back to you. Will you take me as I stand—not asking if I am a pauper?"

"We can work together," Hilma whispered, raising her lips to his.

"If we need to," Ashley answered joyously. "I came, not a cattle as a pauper—having won you. I'm the richest man in the world."

NEWSPAPERS CHARGE PASTOR WITH SLANDER

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—By The Associated Press.—The Rev. George B. Safford, superintendent of the Minnesota Anti-Saloon league, was made defendant in a suit for $50,000 damages, filed in Hennepin county district court by the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press. The action charges the Rev. Mr. Safford with slander.

The suit is based on a statement made by the Rev. Mr. Safford before the Presbyterian Synod of Minnesota, last Thursday, when he is said to have declared that the St. Paul news papers were owned and controlled by a brewing company in that city.

No date has been set for the trial.

MOVIES

"BUFFALO BILL"

Does one ever realize as they speed over the rails of the Union Pacific railroad that but for those bands of steel the cultured east and fertile west would never have been united? The hardships, struggles, strife and almost insurmountable difficulties which President Lincoln and other famous men met with when they decided to make their wonderful dream of reality is told in the Universal chapter play, "In the Days of Buffalo Bill," which is playing at the Riviera again tonight.

EVEN HIS DOG FAILS TO RECOGNIZE MIX IN GOGGLES

"When your own dog don't know you, you're sure in tough," commented Tom Mix, when making his latest William Fox production, "Soft Boiled," now showing at the Casino theatre.

Playing the role of a shoe clerk, Mr. Mix found it necessary to wear an ill-fitting suit of pepper and salt pattern, heavy horn-rimmed glasses and to part his hair in the middle. Never before in his long picture career, had the great western hero of the screen looked so funny.

"WHITE HANDS"

Picture fans who revel in screen stories filled with vivid adventure have a big treat awaiting them, for the management of the Majestic theatre announces the early showing of Max Graf's first super-production, "White Hands."

The story, laid along the coast of northern Africa, is brimful of romance. Indeed, the photoplay is from the pen of America's greatest scenario writer, C. Gardner Sullivan, and deals with the thrilling adventures of a certain "Hurricane Hardy," brutal, licentious master of a sailing vessel, who rules friend and foe alike—by the power of an iron hand.

"CHILDREN OF JAZZ"

Embracing in its story many situations of dramatic power and thrill "Children of Jazz," a new picture featuring Theodore Kosloff, Ricardo Cortez, Robert Cain and Eileen Percy, will be the feature attraction at the Rivoli theatre next Sunday.

The story deals with the jazz existence of Babs Weston, daughter of a financier, who becomes engaged to three men simultaneously. Richard Forestall, son of a man who maintains the social ideals and customs of the folks of the 1850's, is devoted to her, but when he hears of her escapades, he denounces and quits her. Forestall is skipper of a schooner, the crew of which mutinies and many dramatic scenes follow. It is through these that the jazz-loving men and women find themselves, the climax of the picture being exceptionally strong and filled with novelty.

ZEV AND PAPYRUS READY TO START THIS AFTERNOON

Two Hemispheres Awaiting Hour When Great Horses Would be off

BOTH HORSES PRONOUNCED FIT FOR INTERNATIONAL RACE

Experts Believe Neither are Best Horses in Two Lands

NEW YORK.—The day dawned brisk and clear at Belmont park where Zev and Papyrus will run at 4 p. m. The track was slow as the result of several days' rain which did not subside until late last night. The forecast was cooler and cloudy.

NEW YORK — By the Associated Press.—Two hemispheres were awaiting today the shout from one hundred thousand throats that would be echoed around the earth — "They're off!"

"Battles of the century" have there been. The "Battle of the continents" has passed into the printed word, from their togs the stars have shaken the diamond dust and the supremacy of baseball again has been decided. The shouting dies and the spotlight shifts. Now comes the sport of kings. Zev and Papyrus are ready.

The picture is of a soggy, damp crowd, tense and shouting mostly grouped in a big mass, but scattered all along the fringe of a huge oval; a bell rings and then two prancing horses of blue blood and high spirit, and atop them two diminutive figures, one flashing royal purple and primrose, the other in soft green bordered in white.

Draw Up to Post

A few nervous minutes as they draw up at the post, and rear; then a flash as the barrier is sprung and man and beast shoot out for the enviable lead and the coveted rail; the struggle at the turn; the dash down the back-stretch; the contest as the last curve is rounded and the deafening roar of lungs on fire as they come down the stretch to home.

It's "Come on, Steve," and "Come on, Earle," and today the glory of two nations is riding with them. Eighty thousand dollars and a gold cup to the winner; twenty thousand to the loser.

Before last night's dripping, starless sky faded into a dull gray, and morning came, two horses slept undisturbed, oblivious that for days millions had been watching their every move.

Zev, America's horse, and Papyrus, Great Britain's animal, no doubt haven't been aware of all this, but they will be at four o'clock this afternoon when they are led from the paddock and have their sensitive dispositions touched by a demonstration that no race track ever before has heard or seen.

Both horses were pronounced ready last night by their trainers, Samuel C. Hildreth, regarded by some as the dean of the active corps of American experts on horse flesh, and Basil Jarvis, the pleasant-toned young Englishman.

Best in Two Lands

Both the Derby winners of the lands to which allegiance was given them both the highest class on four feet that either nation could muster, are in form. Jarvis has said that Papyrus has not reached the best condition he has been in in England, and everyone knows that Zev has been bothered by a skin eruption that nearly cost him his chance.

On their records and their form the experts are about agreed that neither is the greatest horse yet developed. They say that Zev isn't in the class of Roamer and Exterminator or Man-o'-War of the later days, on this side, and that there is more than one three-year-old in Great Britain that would have represented John Bull better.

RECORD ATTENDANCE OUT FOR WOLVERINE-CLASH WITH BUCKEYES

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—The game toward which student bodies and football teams of two great state universities have focussed their interest for weeks past, took 45,000 persons to Ferry field Saturday, when Ohio State resumed its gridiron argument with Michigan. Every available seat had been sold, 4,000 standing room tickets had been quickly gobbled up and checks of 55,000 persons had been returned with expressions of regret by the Athletic association that no more could be packed into the stands.

Michigan players entered Saturday's contest in peak condition. Only one member of the squad—Neitsch, substitute end—was on the hospital list, incapacitated by a splintered ankle bone. The others were in moleskins ready for the fray.

CHAMPIONSHIP HOPES OF BIG TEN ELEVENS WILL BE BOOSTED OR BLASTED IN TODAY'S GAMES

CHICAGO, Ill.—Champion hopes of Big Ten football teams will be boosted or blasted in Saturday's games, with three of the most important conflicts bearing on the western conference title schedules.

The showing made by Michigan and Iowa, tied for honors last year, against Ohio State and Illinois respectively, will be the guage by which their chances for the title will be measured. Indiana, with one Big Ten victory to its credit, meets Wisconsin playing its first conference game of the season.

The Michigan-Ohio State fray at Ann Arbor may develop into an aerial conflict, both teams having devoted much time to passing and punting.

Illinois pins its hopes largely on the work of Grange, halfback.

Chicago hopes to advance its conference standing by a victory over Northwestern.

The Wisconsin Badgers, who have been slow to start this season are expected to reveal their strength against Indiana at Bloomington. Purdue, meeting Wabash, and Minnesota clashing with North Dakota university, are conceded to have the edge on their opponents. Minnesota's first conference clash is scheduled for next week against the Badgers.

NOTRE DAME DOPED TO WIN OVER PRINCETON SATURDAY BIG EASTERN PROGRAM ON

NEW YORK.—Contests of rare promise and crowds such as never before have witnessed early season football games seemed assured Saturday when the great college pastime, its preliminary season completed, offered its program of engagements involving eastern teams of major importance.

Preparations were made at Princeton to handle a throng of upwards of 30,000 which early began assembling for the great intersectional battle between the Tigers and Notre Dame, and gatherings of equal preparations were expected at the Syracuse-Pittsburgh game at the Yankee stadium; the Pennsylvania-Columbia game at Franklin field; the Harvard-Holy Cross game at Cambridge, and the Yale-Bucknell game at New Haven, while crowds of 15,000 or more were looked for at the Cornell-Colgate game at Ithaca and the Pennsylvania State-Navy game at State college.

MAROON AND PURPLE CLASH SATURDAY

CHICAGO, Ill.—Years of neighborly rivalry culminate here Saturday when the Chicago Maroons take the field against Northwestern, although odds favor the former, the Purple will go into the scrimmage prepared to fight to regain the conference prestige it lost a week ago by losing to Indiana. It is Chicago's first Big Ten game of the year.

NEW YORK.—Abe Goldstein of New York, won the judges' decision over Joe Burman of Chicago, in their twelve round bout. Goldstein substituted for bantamweight champion Joe Lynch. Lynch dislocated his shoulder.

U. S. Golf association has barred slotted or punched clubs. Cussed clubs may still be used.

LAWRENCE SPURRED ON TODAY BY LOSS AGAINST NORMAL

APPLETON, Wis.—With the sting of defeat last week at the hands of the La Crosse Normal to spur them on, Lawrence college gridiron warriors were ready Saturday for their first conference contest with Beloit college Saturday afternoon. The game is expected to be one of the hardest contests on the local schedule. Last year the two teams fought to a scoreless tie on the Beloit field.

The Mills aggregation promises to be a worthy opponent for the local team. The squad will be practically the same as that which met the Lawrence team last year. Coach Buck has put his men through a driving drill in preparation for Saturday's clash. The coach reports that his crew has shown more punch and fight in this week's workouts than at any time during the season.

Sport followers predict that the outcome of Saturday's game will go far toward determining the championship of the Little Five. The Lawrence and Beloit teams are reputed to be the strongest contendenrs of the circuit.

EXPECT GREAT GAME BETWEEN ILLINOIS AND IOWA SATURDAY

IOWA CITY, Iowa.—Although both teams will be made up of "green material," each having only five veterans in their line-up, homecoming fans arriving here Saturday expect to see one of the greatest football games ever staged on Iowa field when the University of Iowa and Illinois clash Saturday afternoon.

Early day indications were that more than 25,000 persons would attend the game.

Coach Zuppke of Illinois, while refusing to predict victory for his team, said its chances depended on the way the line held against the heavier Iowa wall. Coach Jones of Iowa would make no comment.

CENTRAL HIGH BEATS WISCONSIN HIGH FRIDAY, 19-7

MADISON, Wis.—Madison high school defeated Wisconsin university high here Friday afternoon, 19 to 7. The game was played on a muddy field, preventing open work on part of both teams.

BADGERS RULE FAVORITE OVER INDIANA TODAY

Hoosiers Hope to Offset Weight Advantage Today by Speed

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Although Wisconsin rules a favorite, Indiana, encouraged by its victory last week over Northwestern, was pronounced as "ready" for the invaders are confident of putting up a stiff battle when the two western conference football teams meet on Jordan field here Saturday. Both squads were said to b in good condition for the contest.

The Wisconsin team of 48 players with coaches and trainers arrived late Friday and was put through secret practice. The activities of the Indiana eleven were confined to a light workout.

Following the practice Coach Ingram of Indiana said Wisconsin will have a heavier team in the field, but that he hoped to offset this advantage with speed. Indiana has fast backs in Marks, Sloate, Moomaw, Lorber, and Prucha, and Ingram, believes that with proper assistance from the line they will gain consistently.

THIRD HIKE OF YEAR SCHEDULED SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The third of a series of hikes led by R. C. Reuter, of the La Crosse Normal, will be staged Sunday afternoon.

These hikes are growing in popularity and its is expected that even greater numbers will be out Sunday. Hikers are not compelled to stick together on these trips. The hike Sunday will be shorter than previous ones.

It is announced that these hikes are not being held under the auspices of the La Crosse Normal.

U. S. SHOULD KEEP OUT OF EUROPEAN AFFAIRS--BLAINE

Wisconsin Governor Hits Present Foreign Policy of Nation as Being "Shiftless"

OUTLINES CURSE HE THINKS THE NATION SHOULD FOLLOW

Badger Executive Speaker at German Club Meeting

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—America's international policy should be to "keep out of all foreign entanglements" rather than the present policy of "watchful waiting" and "drifting," Governor J. J. Blaine of Wisconsin decared in an address Saturday before the German club of Chicago.

"America's international policy of today promises nothing for the future but the possibility of future wars with which we should have no concern but into which we are doomed to be dragged because of our shiftless methods," Governor Blaine said. He continued:

"America's international policy should be to keep her hands off of coal, oil, steel, keep away from protectorates, avoid 'spheres of influence,' and 'balance of power.' History and experience, brought to us through bloodshed and privations, commends us to the diplomacy and principles of our fathers as they had been expressed for a century and a quarter."

Quotes History

Governor Blaine outlined the history of the American foreign policy, stating that "Great Britain's arrogant imperial policy has brought America into constant conflict with the British Empire."

"It was Great Britain that initiated the policy that a strong nation has a right to ride down a weaker, the stronger being the judge of every nation," he said. "The United States had persistently condemned this policy until 1902 it conceded the right of other nations to intervene with force, a concession that betrayed every ideal of a long established American doctrine, until then, America had contended that a nation had the right only to make diplomatic representations wherever the protection of the lives and property of our nationals were concerned. The policy changed between 1902 and 1907 when again the nation asserted that international debts and rights and privilges of our citizens in a foreign nation should be ascertained and determined by some process of law and not by arbitrary force. Mr. Root in his instructions to delegates to the second Hague Conference, explained our traditional policy by stating that the use of force was 'inconsistent' with respect for the independent sovereignty of other nations and injurious upon the relations of nations.

U. S. Must Go Back

"Mr. Root thus re-established, in form the doctrine that had prevailed in America for nearly a century and a quarter. If we are going to point the way for world peace, our nation should again go back to this traditional American and foreign policy. There is no more right of a nation to enforce pecuniary claims in behalf of her nationals through armies and navies than for a mortgagee to call out the national guard or regular army to enforce a collection against the property of another. The United States should not be a collection agency."

The Wisconsin executive said that America can re-establish her traditional doctrine for international relationship without the consent of a single nation.

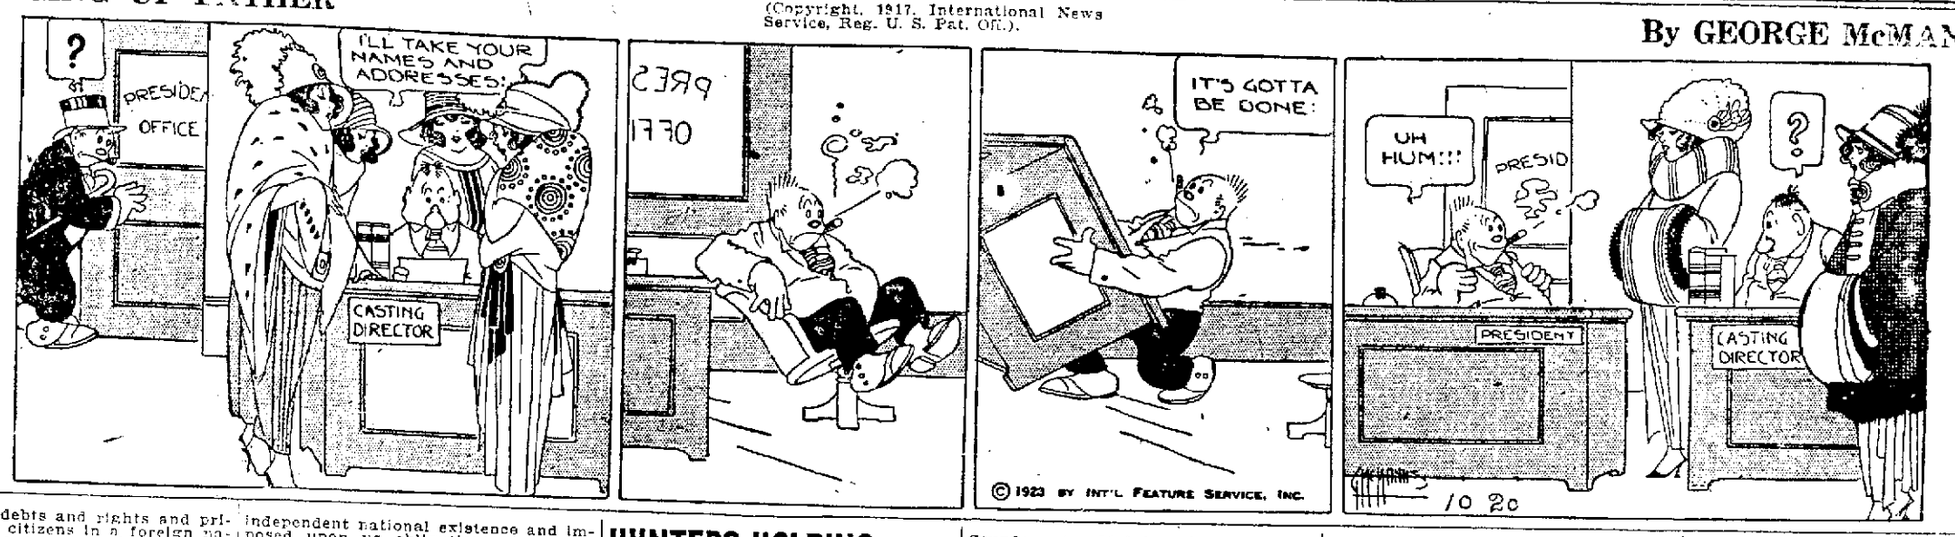

"Then a defensive force on land and sea will be the greatest antidote against wars and it will never again be necessary for an American soldier or sailor to leave the threshold of his country to protect his nation. The doctrine of the country today should be that a citizen has a right to imperil the safety and security of his nation and when he does, it is at his own peril. This was the policy of the nation for more than a century.

"International relationships should be upon identically the same basis as the relationships of citizens within a single sovereignty, with the right of the sovereign to defend itself against invasion and aggression. Imperialism has lost for us a large share of our independent national existence and imposed upon us obligations that have not been to the benefit or security of our peace and prosperity."

GYPSY KING BURIED UNDER SHOWERS OF REAL MONEY

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—Mourners estimated to number nearly 10,000 followed the body of Louis Mitchell, known as "king of the Gypsies," to the grave. He died in Brooklyn, N. Y., several days ago, and on Tuesday, about the time David Lloyd George, former British premier, was being welcomed here, a long funeral procession, led by a band, proceeded through the downtown section. Showers of money, in conformity with Gypsy custom, dropped into the casket of the dead "king" as the body was consigned to the grave.

LEVITAN ADVISES AGAINST FARMING "UP SIDE DOWN"

Declares Dairy Cow is Proving Gold Mine to Wisconsin Agriculturists

BURKE, Wis. — Many Wisconsin communities are farming "up side down" by relying on crops that do not insure a reasonable income each year, State Treasurer Solomon Levitan told an assembly of farmers here Friday night.

"The dairy cow is Wisconsin's gold mine," Mr. Levitan said in advising farmers to turn to dairying. "The value of dairy products of the state annually exceeds the value of the total gold production of the country."

The saving factor in Wisconsin during recent lean years has been the barnyard cow, the treasurer declared.

"The dairy cow will produce a cream check regularly every month or twice a month when any other crop fails," he added. "This has been true particularly in recent years. The cow is never a gamble. It has been and is today the saving factor to Wisconsin.

"The dairy output of the state can be doubled as well as the prosperity of farmers if they will get back to the dairy cow and leave more acres turned right side up for pastures."

CALLS UPON GOVERNORS TO ENFORCE LAW

comment in view of the belief held by some political observers that Mr. Pinchot is out to capture the republican presidential nomination from Mr. Coolidge next year if possible.

Breaking into the midst of this discussion of the prohibition question, Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, several days ago, launched a big dry drive in New York and only Friday embarked on a campaign to stop home brewing.

Public attention was further riveted on the prohibition by publication Saturday of a letter written to the president by August A. Busch, of Anheuser Busch, Inc., of St. Louis, declaring that the attempt to enforce the prohibition laws had corrupted the federal service, uprooted respect for all law, and set back many years the cause of real temperance.

TEXT OF PRESIDENT COOLIDGE ADDRESS

part, due to the physical disease, and, in part to lack of moral stamina, but their abuse is almost wholly a result of violations of the law. If the law can be enforced medical science would very soon rid the country of this menace. This traffic is carried on secretly and evasively. It can be detected and eradicated through a system of local inspectors and police. The national secret service and enforcement officers can cope with the smugglers and the wholesalers, but the peddlers and retailers cannot successfully be suppressed without the assistance of state and municipal police.

The Prohibition Question

"The other problem which I wish to lay before you is that of intoxicating liquors. The eighteenth amendment was proposed by the congress in 1917 and its ratification proclaimed in January, 1919. It prohibits the manufacture, sale, or transportation and the importation and exportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, and confers upon the congress and the several states concurrent power to enact enforcement legislation. This power was exercised by the congress in the national prohibition act which was finally passed in October, 1919, two-thirds of the house of representatives and senate present having voted in the affirmative. Substantially all of the states have likewise assed enforcing acts under the authority of the eighteenth amendment. In all of the states, there had long been laws regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors and in many of the states prohibition had already been adopted.

"Neither the amendment nor the prohibition act undertakes to relieve the states of their responsibility relative to intoxicating liquors, but on the other hand the amendment confers jurisdiction upon them and the prohibition act authorizes state and local prosecuting attorneys to bring injunction proceedings, in any court having equity powers, in the name of the United States.

"The national prohibition act places the duty of its enforcement on the commissioner of internal revenue, his assistants, agents and inspectors. In accordance therewith, there is an assistant commissioner in direct charge of prohibition enforcement, and there are prohibition agents and inspectors in each state. Corresponding provisions will be found in nearly all state laws.

"The constitution, and the laws of the nation and of the several states, are binding alike upon all the inhabitants. It is the constitution which we have given our oaths to support—the constitution which requires of the president that he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed; and the state constitutions lay a similar obligation upon their governors.

Laws Are Plain

"The constitution and the laws are perfectly plain, and the directions which they contain to the president, and the governors are equally plain. The country ought to know all this. It ought to understand just what duties the laws have imposed. It ought to comprehend that when laws have been made there is, and can be, no question about the duty of executives to enforce them with such instruments and by such means as the law provides for securing enforcement. They have no alternative. They cannot be criticized for doing their duty, this cannot be made a political question. If there be any principle which has been established by time, by common consent, by the unqualified assertion of fundamental and statute law, it is that executives are the law enforcing officers of this nation.

"If this were not so, there would be no warrant for the present gathering. I can conceive but one opinion on this, in which every responsible element must concur.

"No provision of the eighteenth amendment, or the national prohibition act, contemplates any surrender of state responsibility. Under them prohibition becomes obligatory in all states, for the constitution and the laws made in pursuance thereof are specifically declared, by the federal constitution, to be the supreme law of the land. They are binding upon every inhabitant. But there still remains to the states the power, specifically reserved in the eighteenth amendment to pass enforcing acts, and there is still on them a joint responsibility to enact and execute enforcement laws, which may not always be exercised, but which can never be avoided.

People Must Observe Laws

"The complementary duty to enforcement of the law is obedience to the law. That rests with the people themselves. The eighteenth amendment prohibits manufacture, transportation, sale, export and import. These are the commercial activities. Trade in intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, is especially denounced. It is in this field that most of the difficulty exists. The main problem arises from those who are bent on making money by an illegal traffic in intoxication. If this could be eliminated the rest would be easy.

"These problems must be taken directly to the American people. This government is their government; these laws are their laws. They have formed their government and enacted their laws, with all due solemnity, to promote their welfare and protect their liberties. They are not a nation of inebriates; they are not a people who can be charged with being hypocrites. They have no patience with anarchy. They are a sober, frank and candid people. They have respect and reverence for duly constituted authority. To them the law is a rule of action. These fundamental national characteristics are not going to be changed. These fundamental conceptions are going to remain permanent.

Pledges Strict Enforcement

"The great body of the people are thoroughly law-abiding. This great law-abiding element of the nation is entitled to support and protection. I propose to give that support and protection to the limit provided by the constitution and the law of the land, against every lawless element. The executives are required to enforce the law. The machinery for the enforcement of the law is that supplied by the acts of congress and the acts of legislatures. That machinery must be used to the full extent of its capacity to secure the enforcement of the law. It is certainly my own purpose so to use it. The people are going to continue to yield obedience to the law. This principle will continue to prevail, whenever the American people shall pass judgment upon it, because it is the foundation of all their institutions.

"We can only make progress with those problems by their frank and candid consideration. They are not going to be decided by prejudice. They are not going to be answered as a result of political intrigue. They are not going to be determined by extremists on either side. They are not going to be solved in accordance with any sordid motive. They will yield to the calm and clear judgment of the American people, through a determined expression of their high moral purpose. The law represents the voice of the people. Behind it and supporting is a Divine sanction. Enforcement of the law and obedience to law by the very nature of our institutions, are not matters of choice in this republic, but the expression of a moral requirement of living in accordance with the truth. They are clothed with a spiritual significance, in which is revealed the life or the death of the American ideal of self-government."

DEMOCRATS TO NAME NATIONAL DELEGATES IN SPRING PRIMARIES

Voters in Several States Also to Express Presidential Preferences

WASHINGTON, D. C.—By The Associated Press.—Democrats in seventeen states will select their delegates to the national convention next year by direct vote in a series of primaries beginning in March.

A tabulation of the dates of these primaries has been made public by the democratic national committee. In many cases they coincide with the dates on which the voters will express their preference among presidential candidates, although in some states electing delegates directly there will be no preferential vote for president, the delegations being either instructed by state convention or left uninstructed.

In many cases, too, democratic and republican voters will go to the polls to elect their delegates on the same day. The list of republican primaries, however, has not been completed by headquarters of the republican national committee.

The democratic list follows:

Alabama	May 13
California	May 6
Florida	June 3
Illinois (district delegates only)	April 8
Massachusetts	April 29
Montana	May 27
Nebraska	April 15
New Hampshire	March 11
New Jersey	April 22
New York	April 1
North Dakota	March 18
Ohio	April 29

South Dakota (meeting Dec. 4, 1923, to propose delegates)	March 18
West Virginia	May 27
Wisconsin	April 1

In practically all states in which conventions are called to select delegates, the convention dates are set by the state committees. At the Illinois, New York and North Carolina conventions delegates-at-large only are selected; in Maryland the convention follows the presidential preferential primary of May 5; in Michigan the date is usually about May 15; in Nevada the platform convention is held June 24; district delegates are chosen in district conventions in North Carolina; the South Carolina convention is usually some time in May. In only one state is the convention date fixed, Wyoming, where convention day will be May 12.

There will be 1,094 delegates at the 1924 democratic national convention, and 729½ votes will be required to nominate.

LESS AMUSEMENTS, MORE SAVING RECORDED BY U. S.

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—Internal revenue officials of this district have announced the "passing of the silly season" and the return to more practical considerations of autumn, basing their statements on revenue collections for September, which showed a sharp decline in sweets and amusements and an increase in stock and bond transfers and in the manufacturers' excise tax, which totaled $546,546.23 for the month. Sales of autos and trucks increased during the month, but automobile accessories fell below August figures.

SPEED UP COOK TRIAL WITH NIGHT SESSIONS

FORT WORTH, Texas.—By The Associated Press.—In order to speed up the trial of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, Arctic explorer, and his thirteen co-defendants on charges of using the United States mails to defraud in connection with oil operations, night sessions of court will be held beginning next week, it was announced by Judge John M. Killits Saturday. Judge Killits and attorneys for both sides believe that by holding the night sessions, the case will be ready to go to the jury in three weeks, otherwise it will take a month or six weeks.

HONEST FIRM ADS $200,000 FOR TAXATION

CHICAGO, Ill.—If Diogenes had been before the board of review he would have tossed away his lantern. He would have found not only an honest man but a whole company of them. The American Thread company had been cited because its schedule was only $68,694. H. F. Duncan, representative, said:

"Must be a mistake. We filed $268,694."

Inquiry showed a clerk in the assessor's office thought the 2 was a $ sign.

"Please add that $200,000," asked Mr. Duncan.

'ROUND TOWN—

MAKING a downtown connection from a north side to south side car was the deliberate determination of a certain La Crosse laboring man Saturday morning at eight o'clock.

The north side car moved into Third and Main streets just as the connecting south side trolley rounded the corner going south on Third street. There would be plenty of time, this man thought, as he idly stepped from the platform of the first car.

But not so. He heard the swish of the air as the door of the south side car closed, and saw it start to move away.

But that was easy. He dashed through the middle of the street, after the car, yanked the trolley rope, sauntered around to the front end and waited for the door to open.

And he got to work on time.

We are not recommending this stunt, however, as a regular practice.

MODEL TOWN IN MICHIGAN SOLD TO HENRY FORD

Highest Rent is Dollar a Month and Electric Light and Water are Free

L'ANSE, Mich.—By The Associated Press.—Pequaming, nine miles to the north of L'Anse, is Henry Ford's town. The highest rent there is $1 a month, electric light and water are furnished at cost, the doctor's bill is never more than $1.50 a month, and fuel famines are unknown.

The Detroit automobile manufacturer acquired possession of Pequaming recently from Charles Hebard and Sons, Inc., pioneer lumbermen of the peninsula.

When the town was built in 1877, the owners set about to make it something different from other lumber towns. They wanted a community of comfortable homes and happy, contented workmen. They seemed to think more of the welfare of their employes than they did of the profits of their enterprise.

There are 105 cottages for the workmen, two churches—one Protestant and one Catholic—an amusement hall, a school, a clubhouse, a waterworks and electric lighting plant, a telephone system, a general store where all residents shop, and a public playground and park.

Each workman pays the same rent—$1 a month. He need never worry about coal, for he burns none. Instead he stuffs his big stove with hardwood from the company's forests, paying $1.75 for a large wagonload—barely the cost of cutting and delivering. A doctor administers to the ills of the community at a charge of $1.50 a month.

The beauty of Pequaming has won frequent comment from tourists. The streets are well shaded, the houses are of varying types, and there is a garden with every house. Purchase of the town gives Mr. Ford ownership of Pequaming's only industry, the sawmill property of the Hebard corporation. This includes a large sawmill, lath and shingle mills, and 40,000 acres of land containing 400,000,000 feet of standing timber.

The saw mill is the third purchased by Ford since his invasion of the Upper Peninsula two years ago. The first was at Iron Mountain, now fast becoming an industrial center of the Upper Peninsula, and the second was at L'Anse.

The Pequaming purchase makes the Detroit manufacturer the largest single taxpayer in Baraga. He will pay about three-fourths of the taxes of the entire county.

Mr. Ford has not announced what policy he will follow at Pequaming, or whether he will continue the Hebard program that has made Pequaming a model town.

MAN, 85, WILL WED HIS PARTNER'S DAUGHTER

NEW YORK.—Daniel Batchelar, 85 years old, and Miss Annie L. Pentacost, 58, both of Jamaica, admitted that they took out a marriage license at Long Island City last week but refused to divulge their wedding plans.

Mr. Batchelar, who is a civil war veteran, was a lifelong friend of his fiancee's father, with whom he was associated in the printing business. The two men were neighbors for fifty years.

When Mr. Pentacost died ten years ago his daughter went to live in the house in which Mr. Batchelar and his wife lived. Mrs. Batchelar died a few years later. A romance then developed between Miss Pentacost and Mr. Batchelar.

ROUGH ON THE CATS

LONDON.—A mongoose which escaped from a crate of bananas in a railway depot here is making serious inroads on the rat and cat population and so far has defied all attempts at recapture.

BET SHE'S A SOUTHPAW

WILLESDEN, Eng.—A woman told the magistrate here that she threw a cup at her husband and unfortunately hit the baby in the eye.

RIVOLI PRESENTS VAUDEVILLE FROM SUNDAY TO TUESDAY

For its vaudeville program which will be offered beginning Sunday and continuing through Monday and Tuesday, the Rivoli theater will have four unique acts. First on the bill are the Ten Northern Collegians who call themselves Resistless Syncopators. Next comes the Ferris Duo presenting a kaleidoscopic novelty which promises to be highly entertaining. Stanley Gallini and Company, a pair of Europe's most noted shadowists, bring to the stage a pleasant diversion from ordinary vaudeville numbers. Their shadows are presented in life-like colors which produces an artistic effect. Many of their shadow pictures are humorous.

WEATHER OUTLOOK

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK—Price fluctuations at the opening of Saturday's stock market were again narrow and irregular. A fair inquiry was noted for the tobacco and equipment shares but heaviness again dropped out in a number of the oils and rubbers, United States Rubber first preferred sagged to another new 1923 low.

American Tobacco advanced two points and the Tobacco Products issue one each. Several of the Northwestern rails improved fractionally. Willys-Overland preferred advanced one point. Goodrich Rubber preferred dropped 1⅜ to a new low. Foreign exchanges opened lower. The weekly reichsbank statement published Saturday showed an increase of more than eighteen quadrillion marks in note circulation.

Stock prices drifted aimlessly and with narrow channels during the first hour of today's stock market, speculators being unable to find any clue to the business outlook from the weekly mercantile reviews. Further accumulation of the tobacco shares which advanced one to three points and buying of some of the representative railroad stocks and industrials, notably Baldwin, Studebaker, Corn Products, U. S. Alcohol, Northern Pacific, Union Pacific and Great Northern Pacific pfd. caused the market to become more lively later and prices moved up briskly. There was evidence, too, of considerable short covering in the last hour. The closing was strong, sales approximated 250,000 shares.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Ill.—Buying by shorts who found offerings were light brought about a moderate upturn in wheat Saturday during early dealings. The market was also influenced some what by the fact that the movement of spring wheat to country elevators and to the leading terminals has become small compared with a year ago. Besides, the run of winter wheat is of modest preparations.

Opening prices, which varied from unchanged to ⅜c higher, with December $1.04⅝ to $1.04⅞, and May $1.09¾ to $1.10, was followed by gains all around.

Subsequently week-end adjustment of trades helped to sustain values. The close was firm, ⅝ to 1c net higher; December $1.05⅜ to $1.05½ and May $1.10¾.

Favorable weather had a bearish effect on corn and oats. After opening unchanged to ⅜c lower, December 73⅜ to 75⅛c, the corn market rallied a little but then underwent a decided sag.

Later the market rallied as a result of considerable buying of December delivery at around 75c. The close was unsettled ¼ to ⅛c to ⅝c net lower, December 75½ to 75⅝c.

Oats started unchanged to ⅛c higher, December 41⅝c. Later all months showed a slight setback.

Provisions were firmer in sympathy with the hog market.

BABE SLIDES HOME — MINNEAPOLIS BOY HERO — LEONARDO'S PLANE — SPERRY'S AIR-FLIVVER

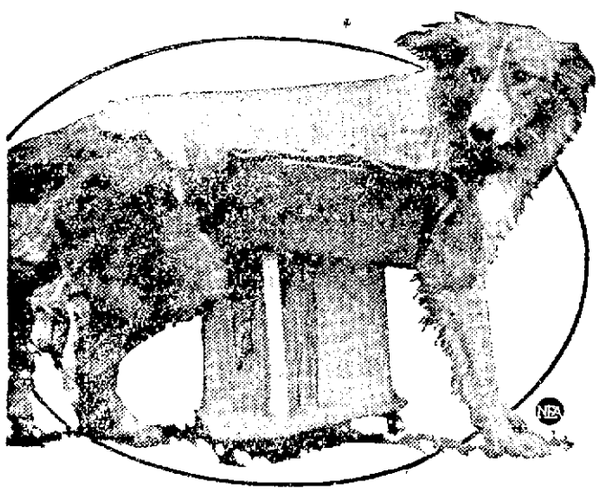

AND THERE—IT SLID—Ball games are won on narrow margins sometimes. Babe Ruth was on third during the second inning of the fifth world series game. Pipp grounded to Frisch, who whipped the ball home. Babe came in and looked out a mile, but the big fellow, shown here just about to launch into a tremendous slide, evaded Gowdy's hand, thus scoring what proved to be the winning run in an 8 to 1 score.

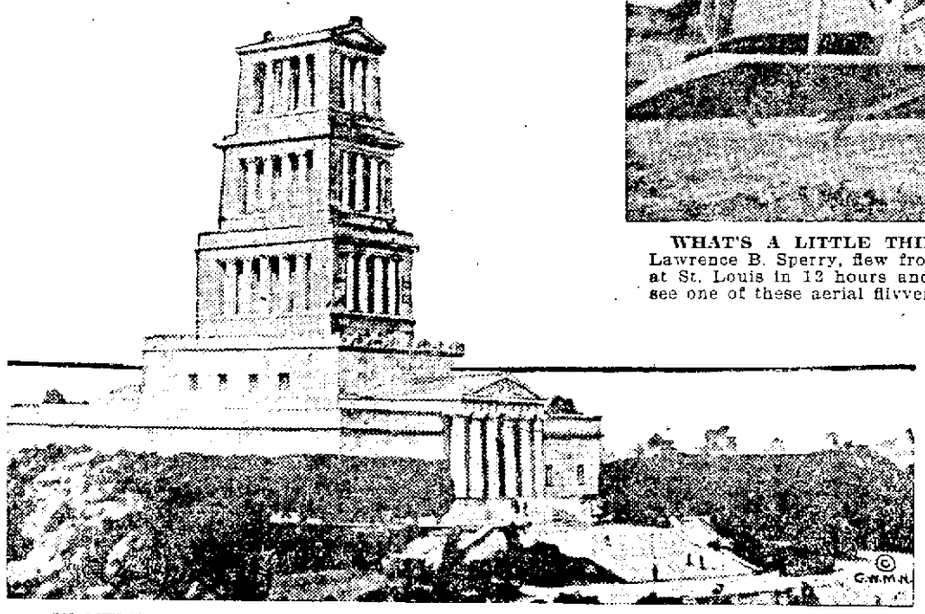

NOW IT'S THE SHENANDOAH—The Navy's big ZR-1, in her hangar at Lakehurst, N. J. was christened recently. The name of the big ship was changed to the Shenandoah. Notables of the navy attended.

WHAT'S A LITTLE THING LIKE DISTANCE!—This small plane, the invention of Lawrence B. Sperry, flew from his Long Island home to the recent international air races at St. Louis in 12 hours and used less than $12 worth of gasoline. It is Sperry's plan to see one of these aerial flivvers parked in every garage before long.

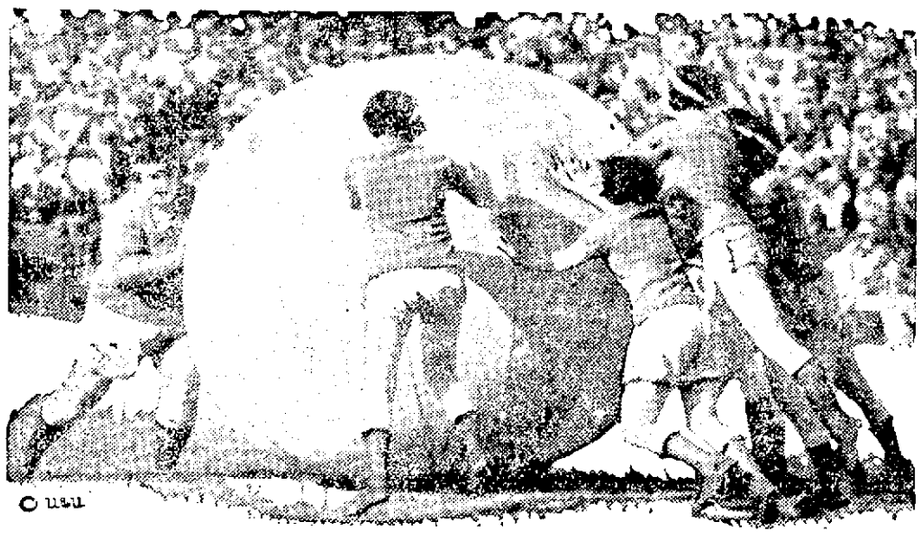

—AND DOING NICELY, THANK YOU—A careless autoist got Fido into all this trouble as shown in the picture. With back broken, hips dislocated and otherwise torn and mangled, J. W. Dibert, his owner, at first was advised to shoot him. Instead a veterinary surgeon was called, and encasing the helpless dog in plaster cast and splints, the vet soon had Fido to a point of recovery where he can now do everything but chase cats and write his name.

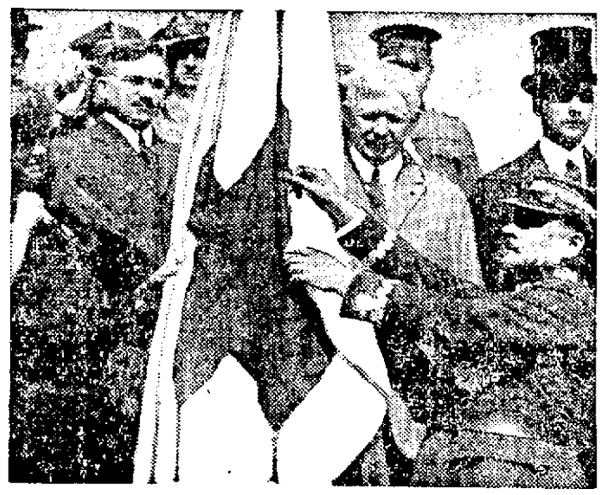

IN MEMORY—When this $4,000,000 Washington Masonic National Memorial, to be erected in honor of President Washington, is completed it will represent the grandest monument ever consecrated to the memory of any human being. Impressive ceremonies will mark the laying of the cornerstone November 1. The monument will rise on the right bank of the Potomac just over the Virginia line on Shooters Hill, at Alexandria. It will be 200 feet high and 160 feet wide.

IN APPRECIATION—General Josef Haller, famous Polish general, now visiting the United States, is shown decorating the American Red Cross flag with the Polish Restitua, the highest award of the Polish republic, in recognition of relief work done in his country. The ceremony took place in Washington.

"DEATHOMETER"—This 15-foot indicator, fashioned after an automobile speedometer, told citizens of Buffalo, N. Y., the progress of a "Five Days for Safety" campaign carried on in that city in connection with the 12th annual congress of the National Safety Council, attended by 3500 delegates.

HERO—Hilding Anderson is only 13 but he's every inch a hero and credited with saving 38 lives. Heedless of his own danger, when flames enveloped the Augustana home in Minneapolis, he dashed through the burning building, spreading alarm and carrying many of the child inmates to safety.

WHAT NEXT? — We've heard of some funny things, but listen to this; Jackson H. Corwin is undertaking a hike from Philadelphia to San Francisco backwards. Photo taken about 20 miles from Washington. Corwin uses a mirror to guide himself.

HOWDY!—Princess Helen Cantacuzene of Rumania, who created a stir in European court circles by announcement of her intention to go upon the stage, will visit America in the near future in the guise of a footlight celebrity. 'Snice! Dontchathink?

WALKING-STICK CHAIR—The walking stick which may be converted into a seat by unfolding the handle is frequently seen at English sporting events. Miss Bessie Oulahan has introduced it to Washington, D. C.
